

Measure an existing ring

Print at actual size, check the ruler, then match your ring to a circle

BEFORE YOU START: CHECK YOUR PRINT

Print this guide at 100% ('Actual size') with 'Fit to page' or 'Scale' switched off. Then check the ruler below measures exactly 10 cm with a real ruler, or that a bank card fits the card outline exactly. If it doesn't, the sizes will be wrong – please adjust your printer settings and print again.

- 1 Choose a ring that fits well
Use a ring that fits comfortably on the finger you'll wear your signet on.
- 2 Place it on the circles
Lay it flat on the circles below. The right size is the circle that just fills the inside of your ring, with its edge touching all the way round.
- 3 Not sure?
If your ring falls between two circles, get in touch – we can send you a ring sizer set to check.

BANK CARD CHECK

A standard bank card (85.6 × 54 mm)
should fit this outline exactly

Measure your finger

Cut out the sizer strip, wrap it round your finger and read your size

- 1

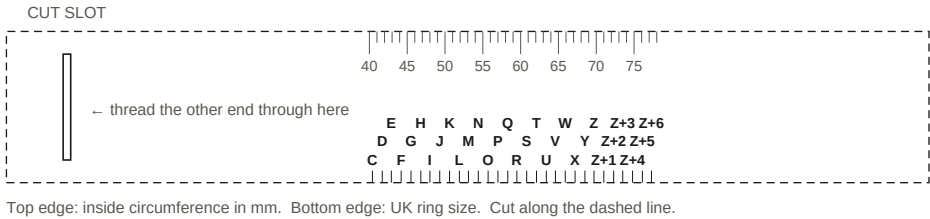

Cut out the strip
Cut carefully along the outer edges, including the slot.

Wrap it round your finger
Thread the end through the slot and pull until it's snug but slides over your knuckle.

- 3

Read your size
Read the figure where the strip meets the slot. For the most accurate size, find that circumference in the chart below.

Measure at the right time
Measure at the end of the day, when your hands are warm. Cold fingers are smaller.

Half sizes sit halfway between the sizes shown. Sizes follow the UK standard ring scale (BS EN ISO 8653); US and EU equivalents are rounded to the nearest quarter and whole size. Not sure? We can post you a ring sizing set – just ask.

Choose your face shape and size

Every face shape and size we offer, printed at actual size

The face is the flat top of a signet ring that carries the engraving. Sizes are height × width, measured across the face. Hold this page up to your hand to see how each will look.
